Code of Conduct

Introduction

In keeping with its vision and values, Network for Africa is committed to maintaining the highest degree of ethical conduct amongst all its staff and associated personnel (including trustees). To help increase understanding, this Code of Conduct details Network for Africa's expectations of employees in key areas.

Scope and purpose

This Code of Conduct applies to all contracted staff, international and local, employed by Network for Africa, associated personnel (including trustees) and must also be committed to by Network for Africa's operational/project partners as part of a Memorandum of Understanding.

The purpose of this Code of Conduct is to set out the conduct expected of Network for Africa staff whilst under contract to the organisation, and forms part of all contracts of employment. The Code is applicable at all times. Breaches of the Code of Conduct are grounds for disciplinary action, up to and including dismissal (for staff), termination of contract (for associated personnel) and, where appropriate, referral to other agencies such as the police.

Whilst recognising that local laws and cultures differ considerably from one country to another, Network for Africa is an International Non-Governmental Organisation, and therefore the Code of Conduct is developed from international and UN standards. Network for Africa staff and the staff of our project partners are expected to uphold local law wherever they operate, except where the Code of Conduct is more stringent, in which case the Code applies.

Mission and vision

Network for Africa's vision is for survivors of conflict or genocide and their families in sub-Saharan Africa, to have access to the mental health care and livelihoods support they need to rebuild their lives.

Its mission is to support survivors of conflict or genocide and their families, in communities in sub-Saharan Africa who have been left behind after the fighting stops, and the humanitarian aid moves on, to recover from trauma and rebuild their lives. We respond to what these communities tell us they need, and equip community leaders with the skills to identify those most in need, so we can offer appropriate and sustainable support. We form long-term partnerships with local NGOs, working with them to provide mental health support so survivors can tackle the deep-rooted psychological consequences that often block their recovery, and livelihoods to enable them to break the cycle of mental illness and poverty.
